

Fraction Action

Game Rules

Fraction Action is played according to the rules of the card game "War." Two or more players may play. The object is to win all the cards and learn about fractions in the process.

Deal out all the cards facedown. Players do not look at their cards. The cards are kept face down in a pile.

Each player turns their top card face up on the table. The player with the highest card takes all the cards and places them face down at the bottom of their pile. If there is a question concerning which card has the higher value, there is a key at the bottom of the card. Players may compare keys to determine winner. Continue with the next round.

"War" happens when all the cards on the table are of equal value. The tied cards stay on the table and players play the next round by placing one card face-down and another face-up. The player with the highest face-up card wins all the cards in play. War may continue if both of the face-up cards are of equal value as well.

Play continues until one player has won all the cards. If time is limited, the player with the most cards is the winner.
